COUNCIL BRIEFS

- Penrith City Council understands people in our community are experiencing hardship due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic. During this tough time, we would like to remind residents that it is OK to ask for help. Support is available to you.

For contact details and to find out more information about how Council and other local services can assist, visit penrith.city/covid19

- When you have a lot of big waste items such as damaged lounges, broken prams, toys, mattresses or even large branches and plants, you might think 'These are too big for my household bin, but how else do I dispose of them?'. These bulky items belong in a bulky waste collection.

A bulky waste collection is a service we provide our residents with four free collections per year to collect your waste that's too bulky, too heavy or too big to go in your household bins and make sure, wherever possible, items are sent to the correct facility for valuable resources to be recovered rather than sent to landfill.

Find out more about what items can be included in a bulky waste collection at penrith.city/bulkywaste

- Penrith City Council is getting ready to deliver a vibrant new green space in the city centre with demolition of buildings within the City Park site set to begin in October.

A small number of car spaces in the Allen Place car park will be removed in October to allow for this work to occur. Council is upgrading the informal car park on Woodruff Street to help offset this parking loss. The upgrade to Woodruff Street car park will start this week.

The new temporary car park at Woodruff Street will be sealed and include line markings to increase the number of spaces on site to provide 159 parking spaces including four accessible parking spaces in a mix of all-day, one and two-hour time limits.

The Woodruff Street car park upgrade will be finished in October. Other parking options in the city centre can be found by downloading the ParkPenrith App and using the interactive parking map at penrith.city/parking

- While we may be in lockdown, our imaginations don't need to be – free your creative spirit! Council is encouraging residents to get creative while at home and create a piece of art to display on their front lawn or balcony. Take a photo or video of your artwork and share it to social media with the hashtag #Wecreatepenrith before Sunday, 3 October 2021. The five most creative posts will each win a $100 voucher!
